

CLINICALLY-LED, RESULTS DRIVEN

The services delivered are unique to every situation but with a clinical ethos at the heart of the organisation, the key components are always:

High quality individuals to undertake the services

Integration of the service provided with existing pathways and protocols

Governance and quality assurance including participation in local audit/ QPIs

Reporting on agreed KPIs on the service delivery

Exceptional patient satisfaction results

WORKING WELL FOR THE NHS IN SCOTLAND

The Aberdeen Clinic team works in collaboration with Scottish NHS trusts to deliver a cost effective solution to waiting list problems, which meet the strategic objectives of patient-centred care.

“The Aberdeen Clinic (TAC) continues to be an important and valued partner to NHS Grampian as we work on developing a sustainable and high quality service for our patients. TAC have been closely involved with us in the planning of service delivery, and all changes, challenges and opportunities have been worked through in close collaboration. We have been very satisfied in terms of governance, quality and overall approach of the TAC team.”

Gary Mortimer, Acute Services Director, NHS Grampian

HOW A BETTER ENDOSCOPY SERVICE COMES TOGETHER

At The Aberdeen Clinic, we understand the pressures on the NHS because we've all been there. Our business is run by clinicians with real experience of working in public healthcare. And it's this that drives us to make endoscopy better for you and your patients. With our cost-effective support, we can help you reduce waiting times and deliver better care.

The Aberdeen Clinic ensures that extra capacity is introduced where and when it is needed quickly into the system, both in terms of clinical activity and administrative support. This ensures that you can respond to increases in demand within your existing clinical programmes.

We work with local clinicians to ensure patients are added seamlessly into treatment pathways. All work is estimated and delivered below current NHS tariffs so there is no excessive strain on hospital budgets.
